They are also lemonade containing only the purest of acids, guaranteed to make the stoutest stomach tenderly remember home mother and the domestic poultice.

Passing along, ladies and gentlemen to the avenue of wonders, the expectant ear catches the stentorian tones of Prof. Kneu't All calling attention to the modern marvels to be found in the freak His Tale of Woe.

Listen: "Here's a Phenomenon—very rare— The Big Fat Man—a Swell Affair. He ate dried apples, drank ginger post He's swelling daily and cannot stop!" One of the features was a stately ring-mistress, while acting as ringmaster at different times, were Col. J. V. Allstrom, Major Joseph Fields, Lieut. J. Dey Con-over, C. Asa Francis, Col. J. J. Such Nimble Fingers.

When the performance was about to commence in the big tent eager throngs crowded their coin on the nimble-fingered ticket sellers, and, hastily swallowing three glasses aplece of the amber lemonade, climbed gracefully into the high seats overlooking the arena.

Stronger Tham a Porter.

Another admirable act was performed by Signor Dublin Stout, whose astonishing feats of strength showed him to be stronger than Porter or the Raines law. When Mile. Adele wabbled on the slack wire and began shedding her thirty-cent wrapper, Johnny Purvis, the original horrified clown, cried 'out in accents wild:

"Outrageous!" and sworn to fight it out to the last ditch, only to be plioted like sheep to a police station, and even to a police court, where at the last they waived everything and were only too glad to pay whatever excesses were asked if only they might be allowed to go away in peace.

Mile. Onanag, alias Ernest Pach, "late equestrienne with Eightdeet and Sold Brothers' Circus" gave an exhibition which stamped him the king-queen of the arena. All bones and angies, this cheese-clothed divinity was almost as fair and graceful as Eddle Foy. The nag-recognized as the faithful village dray-horse—manifested a determined disposition to leave the tanbark and return to private life, but clownish Charlie Walters succeeded, with the aid of a sprig of spinach, in coaxing the reluctant steed around the ring a couple of times, the airy, fairy Pach doing his dumbdest meanwhile to live up to the reputation the press agent had given him. But, despite his persistent effort, he was Mile. Offanag most of the time. However, it was really the horse's fault. All this is now to be changed if Assistant Corporation Counsel Arthur F. Cosby and Deputy Mayor's Marshal James D. Merriman are allowed to take up the fight for the citizens of the city. When the trouble was over, Charlie All that is lacking is some one willing Walters perched himself upon the edge of the ring and trippingly recited the pathetic poem: "Old Mother Hubbard, she went to the cupboard, to be a complainant, some one who has suffered and who will devote a few hours to appearing at hearings.

The case which has at last aroused To get her poor girl a dress; But when she got there the cupboard the authorities to decided action is that But when she got there the cupboard was bare,
And so was the poor girl, I guess."
Fred Phillips, distinguished for his bald spot and unseasonable avoirdupois, fought a three-round battle with "Renny" Hendrickson, who, though long on hair but short on weight, won a complete victory by putting his knee on the ohest of his stalwart adversary and then punching the breath out of him. of Mrs. Jessie Pierson wife of a Wall street broker, living at No. 1845 Broadway. Degnan and Judge Benjamin Pl Morris "lectured" themselves hoarse, and James Hubbard, R. V. R. Hendrickson, Fred Phillips, Herbert Williams, Howard Whitfield and Frederick Frick made capital clowns. "Outrageous!" Said Magistrate. "This is outrageous," said Magistrate Flammer. "No person should be arrest-ed in a case of this kind. A cabman is for his services, and simply because that person refuses to pay, the person is artion. These cab cases are just as much sivil cases as any other."

where any one has fought to the end the overcharge of a cabman was that of an Englishman who was charged an exorbitant rate for being taken from the Fifth Avenue Hotel to the White Star line pier. He refused to pay the excessive charge. The cabman drove the Englishman to several policemen asking that his fare be arrested, and at last to the Charles Street Police Station. There the Englishman was tood that he would not only miss his steamship but would be put to much annoyance if he refused to pay what was demanded. The Englishman insisted on the acknowledgment of his personal right and missed his boat. He appeared against the cabman in Jefferson Market Court, and not only had the overcharging jehu fined $10. but was publicly complimented from the bench by the Magistrate for his moral courage.
